Global Citizen

Volunteer abroad to challenge yourself to do something outside your comfort zone. Experience living and working abroad with cross-cultural teams and families. The experiences range from 6 - 8 weeks. While they are generally non-paid opportunities, you often receive stipends and basic support services like food and accommodations.

- Providing education: Use your skills to help educate young people to improve their chances while working within their community.
- Improving literacy: Working with teachers and local community members to achieve greater levels of literacy
- Eradicating poverty: Supporting skills development and planning / capacity-building to help communities grow and trade their way out of poverty
- Sustainable living: Enabling communities to better deal with the effects of climate change and reduce their impact on the planet
- Health & sanitation: Work with local communities to improve sanitation and health to reduce disease and increase food production
- Human rights: Bring facilitation and business skills to communities around the world in order to help advance equality and understanding

Why volunteer abroad with AIESEC?

- Personal and Professional Development:
  - Understand your strengths and weaknesses
  - Become solution driven
  - Discover your bigger purpose
- Become a Global Citizen:
  - Break down cultural stereotypes
  - Gain a global network
  - Understand global issues

You can never be 100% ready. But we’re here to support you as you take your first steps out of your comfort zone. And from there you will grow as a role model for others.
Global Entrepreneurs

Unlike our other opportunities, Global Entrepreneurs is a unique, short-term unpaid professional internship. Placements will be in global startups, and those that take on these opportunities will primarily be working in sales and marketing. With a Global Talent work opportunity in the information technology field, students and recent graduates are able to gain new skills in an international work environment.

- Management: Immerse yourself in the world of international business. See how Startups function in a global context. Work with an international team to deliver key projects for the success of the Startup. Expand your professional network, while gaining business acumen.

- Marketing: Deepen your expertise of global marketing. Impact global audiences by being a voice for a global organization. Demonstrate your expertise in connecting communities through branding, outreach, and international relations.

- Information Technology: Advance your technical skills through working with Startups on web development, database management, and software development. Acquire a global resume and open the doors of the technology industry.

Why intern abroad with AIESEC?

- Break Cultural Barriers
- Be a Global Professional
- Entrepreneurial & Responsible Leadership
- Personal and Professional Development

Discover thousands of opportunities in startups. Now is your time to build your confidence, gain experience and build your leadership capabilities.
Global Talent
AIESEC’s Global Talent program connects students and recent graduates to paid work opportunities across the world. This process is entirely student-operated with AIESEC members working to produce the best quality exchanges possible. Our goal is to send young people in Estonia on programs that will develop professional skills and a global mindset by the end of 2016. Each internship lasts and work opportunities last between 3 and 18 months.

Everyone knows that internships are a great way to gain experience in your chosen field while earning school credit and even some extra money. That experience could give you a huge advantage over the competition when it’s time to look for your first job after college—but if that isn’t enough, here are some other reasons why internships are worth doing.

You’ll Probably Get Paid

Sure, you won’t get rich from your internships, but chances are you’ll earn more than enough to get by.

- $7.25/hr Federal minimum wage rate in the United States in 2012
- $16.21/hr Average wage for an undergraduate intern
- $21.93/h Average wage for a grad school intern

- 58.8% of interns are hired after graduation by the company they interned at.
- 61.2% of the time employers make full-time job offers to their interns.
- 69% of companies with 100 or more employees offered interns full-time jobs in 2012.
- 86.5% of the time former interns accept full-time positions at a company where they interned.

You Might Get A Job Offer Out Of It

Your internship may actually be an extended interview for a full-time job at the company.

- 47% of former students say they would have “done more internships or work part time” if they could go back and change anything about their college experience.

You’ll Find Out If It’s The Right Career For You

Internships give you a chance to see first-hand if a field really is a good fit for you. As a result, people who do internships may have fewer regrets after they graduate.

- $28,000 Average starting salary for entry-level employees who never completed an internship
- $34,680 Average starting salary for entry-level employees who interned previously

You Could Increase Your Earning Potential

Believe it or not, your internship could significantly boost your salary at your first job after college—and put you on track to earn more over the course of your career.

Where Can I Work or Intern Abroad?

AIESEC is present in 126 countries and we focus on creating work and internship opportunities in developing and more economically developed countries. While we do offer programs in Latin America and Asia, these projects are very competitive and should only be taken on by students with the right amount of prior work experience. Additionally, teaching is the field with the most programs, but these are more likely to be found in developing countries rather than more economically developed countries.

AIESEC in Estonia has special partnerships with the following countries and territories to create the most impact with Estonian youth:

GLOBAL CITIZEN
- China
- India
- Vietnam
- Spain
- Myanmar
- Kazakhstan
- Norway
- Poland
- Austria

GLOBAL ENTREPRENEURS
- Colombia
- Brazil
- Japan
- Germany
- South Korea
- Hungary
- China
- India
- Switzerland
- France

GLOBAL TALENT
- Colombia
- Brazil
- Japan
- Germany
- South Korea
- China
- India
- Vietnam
- Switzerland
- UAE

We are, of course, happy to work with students and recent graduates interested in volunteering in countries not listed above, though the matching process.
